

Access policy during construction – and dismantling

During construction and dismantling periods, RAI Amsterdam is only accessible with a valid construction and dismantling badge. Anyone who enters the halls during construction and dismantling of events must register online.

We kindly request that everyone registers in advance as much as possible in order to promote a faster flow on arrival at the RAI. If this is not possible, you can also register yourself on site at the relevant registration point.

You can correct the badge via the registration module. After registration, each registered person will receive a digital voucher. This must be printed out and taken to one of the registration points at Amsterdam RAI. On presentation of the voucher, you will receive a personal set-up and break-down badge that provides access during set-up and breakdown of the event. The registration points are open from the 1st build-up day and are located at recognizable locations at Amsterdam RAI.

Have you not pre-registered? Then it is also possible to register at the RAI upon arrival by showing a valid proof of identity. Possible waiting times cannot always be avoided.

Personal protective equipment

During the stand construction and dismantling period it is mandatory to wear approved safety shoes. A safety helmet is only required if the red flashing light is on in the halls. During the installation period it is not necessary to wear safety shoes or a safety helmet. If you are not in possession of a safety helmet and/or safety shoes, you have the option to purchase them at the registration point.
